

Boosey & Hawkes

1980 CENTENNIAL BRASS BAND CONTEST

CHRISTCHURCH, NEW ZEALAND

PROGRAMME MESSAGE

Although Boosey and Hawkes manufacture a complete range of Brass and Woodwind instruments, there is no doubt that the Company's reputation has been built up over many years by a unique involvement with Bands.

A visit, in days gone by to the famous Crystal Palace Band Contest in London would not have been complete without calling at the B and H display stand.

Today the British style Brass Band has developed in many countries overseas and it still remains a fact that whether it be a Festival in Norway, Holland, Switzerland, or Spain, the meeting place for Bands and Bandsman is usually the B and H exhibit.

We are proud to be associated with "The Boosey and Hawkes 1980 Centennial Contest", and wish all Bands and players the very best of luck on their important day.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The Centennial Contest, the one we have all been awaiting, has arrived.

What a wonderful achievement to have had one hundred years of Brass Band Contesting in New Zealand.

Our thoughts at this time turn to the devoted gentlemen of those bygone days who pioneered not only our contests, but also our Movement.

Let us ever remember and appreciate the trials, tribulations and obstacles (and there were many) these enthusiasts overcame to pave the way for what we are celebrating this week. We shall be ever grateful to them.

The city of Christchurch always proves to be a popular venue for our National Contests, and I am certain this time will be no exception. We appreciate the support which is always forthcoming from His Worship the Mayor, his Fellow Councillors and the Traffic Department.

The Christchurch Contest Committee has been busy arranging this important Contest for nearly three years.

As can be imagined, a great deal of hard work and organising has been entailed.

To Mr G. V. Aldridge, the chairman and his Fellow members we owe a deep debt of gratitude and a big THANK YOU.

Boosey and Hawkes our Sponsors need no introduction to Bandsman. A Firm with a renowned world-wide reputation (one has only to read of the large number of bands who play Boosey and Hawke instruments winning contests in every country brass contests are held) have graciously provided Sponsorship for our Centennial Contest. In thanking Boosey and Hawkes for this very fine gesture, we extend a sincere and cordial welcome to Mr Bill Martin of England who is here to represent them and share with us all this memorable occasion. The New Zealand Brass Bands' Association is proud and honoured to be associated with such a reputable Firm.

We welcome once again as Chief Adjudicator Mr John Hopkins. No stranger to Christchurch, nor indeed New Zealand, we extend to him and his fellow adjudicators (including Mr Trevor Ford) a sincere welcome.

Mr Ford, an Australian now domiciled in Norway, was an adjudicator at the Kerkrade Festival in 1978 when our own National Band competed. Included also in this welcome is Mr Laurie Davidson our Chief Military Judge and the Chief Supervisor for the Contest Mr Bram Sutton.

We are honoured with the presence of fellow bandsmen from Australia. To them and the many overseas visitors who are attending this contest we extend a hearty welcome and hope their stay in Christchurch will be a happy one.

Our very best wishes for a successful contest are extended to all competitors.

The members of the National Executive are appreciative and mindful of expense and time involved in attending contests, and sincerely hope that all will have some measure of success to help compensate for their endeavours.

J. Rafferty,
President N.Z.B.B.A.

1980 CENTENNIAL BRASS BAND CONTEST

MESSAGE FROM HAMISH HAY, MAYOR OF CHRISTCHURCH

I am very pleased to extend a warm welcome to all visiting Bandsman, officials and supporters who are attending the 1980 Brass Band Contest and to express the hope that your time in Christchurch will be a memorable one in every respect. Our City appreciates the opportunity to host important events such as this Contest and I know that the local organising Committee has worked extremely hard to ensure its success and to provide for your social activities which you are having in the Garden City.

May I especially welcome our overseas guests and hope that you will thoroughly enjoy your visit to New Zealand and the keen competition which you will no doubt encounter from our Bands. I trust you will have an opportunity to see not only as much of our City as possible, but also to visit other parts of the South Island with its renowned scenic attractions.

Christchurch has always been proud of its fine Brass Bands and has a tradition of appreciation of good band music and I am confident that this contest will give our citizens great pleasure and we are delighted that our City has been chosen as the venue for the Centennial Brass Band Contest.

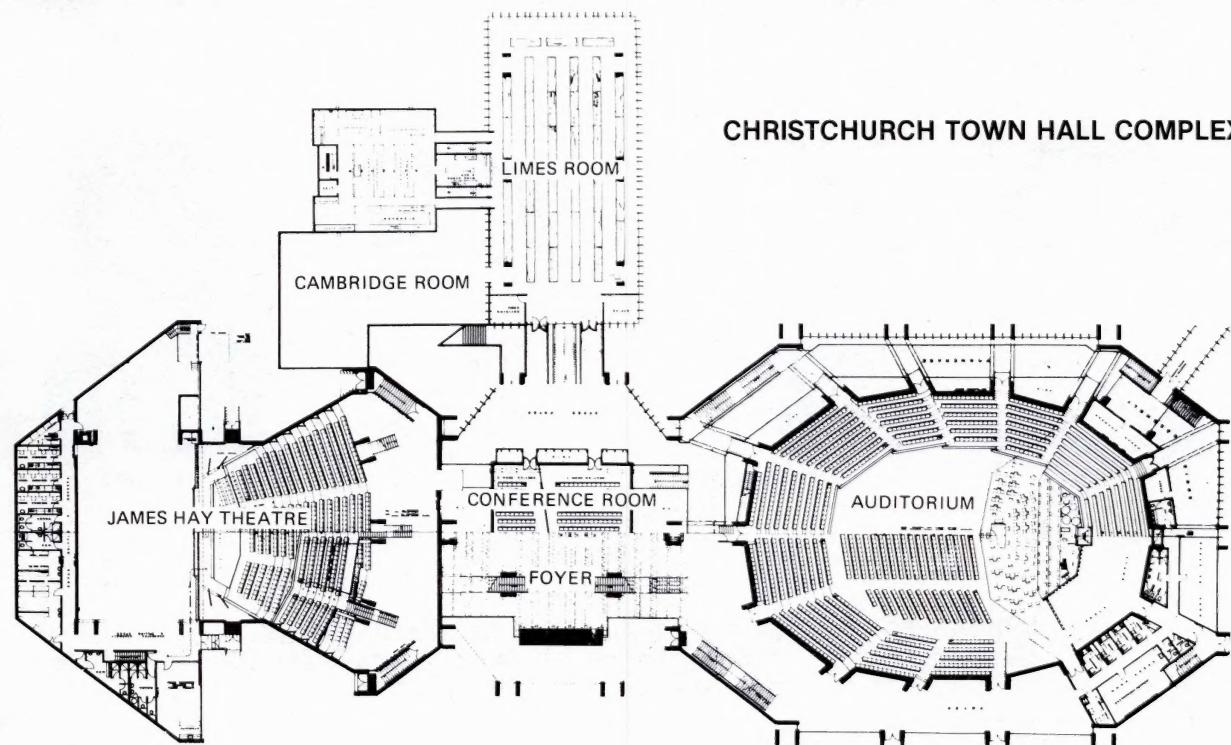

I wish the Contest great success and extend a sincere welcome to all participating in it.

ADJUDICATORS

JOHN HOPKINS

Dean of the School of Music at the Victorian College of the Arts, John Hopkins has contributed substantially to the Australian musical scene. He inaugurated the Prom concerts in Australia and has been closely associated with young audiences and in the training of young musicians, especially through National Music Camps.

John Hopkins has conducted the Australian Youth Orchestra on several successful overseas tours.

Mr Hopkins, who was born in England, joined the ABC in 1963 as Director of Music. Previously he was Assistant Conductor of the BBC Scottish Orchestra, Chief Conductor of the BBC Northern Symphony Orchestra, conductor of the National Orchestra of the New Zealand Broadcasting Corporation and Musical Director of the New Zealand Opera Company.

In spite of a busy schedule he continues to make conducting appearances, both in Australasia and many other countries. While touring South Africa, John Hopkins had the distinction of being the first conductor to conduct a group of mixed race musicians, before a mixed race audience at a music festival in Johannesburg with the National Symphony Orchestra.

He has directed the Sydney Symphony Orchestra in Asia and Britain and appeared with major orchestras in many parts of the world. At the end of last year he departed for Europe and gave concerts in Great Britain and West Germany.

He was for many years a member of the Music Board of the Australia Council and is currently a board member of the Australian Opera. In 1970 he was awarded an OBE for his services to music.

TREVOR J. FORD

Born in Tasmania in 1931, Trevor J. Ford joined the Royal Marine Band service in 1948 and served for 17 years — the last 5 as Bandmaster of the Home Fleet and a member of the instruction staff of the Royal Marine School of Music.

Since 1964 he has lived in Norway and is Music Inspector for the Norwegian Band Federation, responsible for music education, band conducting and the instrumental teaching programme.

He has written several theory books which are in use throughout Scandinavia, and has over 20 published works for band including several for brass band.

In 1973 he won second prize in an international composer contest for band work. He is a regular adjudicator for contests in Scandinavia including the Norwegian and Danish national finals and internordic contests, and has also adjudicated at the Luxembourg national contest, Kerkrade World Festival, European Brass Band Championships and British Brass Band Championships.

A regular guest conductor in the U.S.A., he also conducts and lectures in Holland, Germany, England and Sweden, is a lecturer at Oslo University and Oslo Music High School.

Trevor J. Ford founded the Norwegian National Youth Band and is a frequent broadcaster on Norwegian Radio.

The Oamaru & Invercargill Garrison Bands attended the first N.Z. Contest which was held in Christchurch in 1880. Both are still very active and will be competing in this year's Centennial Contest also held in Christchurch.

THE OAMARU GARRISON BAND

The Oamaru Garrison Band was formed on November 4, 1879.

Its first contest record is: New Zealand titles — 1883, 1884, 1885 (twice), 1886, 1887, 1889, 1891, 1892, 1896, 1904, 1927, 1930, 1932, 1950, 1962. Melbourne, Australia, 1898 (second place). Provincial successes — 1935, 1938, 1947, 1948, 1963, 1972, 1979.

The Oamaru Garrison Band first met its friendly rival, the Invercargill Garrison Band, at a Promenade Competitive Concert at Oamaru on April 18, 1881 — Invercargill 1, Oamaru 2, Queenstown 3. No decision was given at a contest between Oamaru and Invercargill on the Sunday because of the extremes in the choice of music, Oamaru playing "The Last Judgment" and Invercargill "H.M.S. Pinafore."

A properly organised contest in 1883 at Oamaru was won by Oamaru Garrison.

In 1885 at Wellington the Oamaru Garrison Band pioneered the inclusion of a trio of slide trombones.

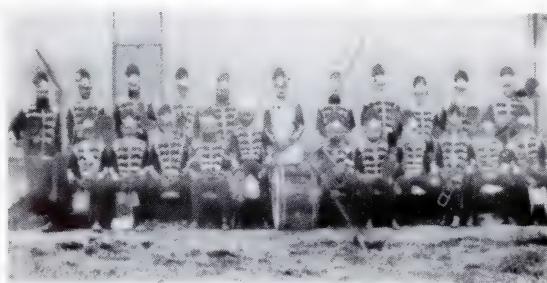

At the 1886 band contest at Oamaru a code of rules for band contests was drawn up.

In 1924 at Christchurch Oamaru was represented in two grades at the one contest.

On November 12, 1940, the Oamaru Garrison Band joined the Home Guard as a unit, the first band in New Zealand to do so.

In 1958 the Oamaru Garrison Band built its own bandroom, regarded as one of the finest in New Zealand.

The Oamaru Garrison Band celebrated its centenary in November 1979.

FROM THE PAST

For interest, the gentlemen on Page 57 in the advertisement for Mr T. Bremmer is a member of the New Plymouth Band in 1887. It has been drawn off an actual Photo. He is one member of the band at the time and forms part of a collection of photos of members, presented to a local gentleman in 1887.

In case you didn't know New Plymouth is one of the oldest bands in New Zealand — formed in 1859. They had their centenary in 1961, finding out while preparing for the celebrations that it was in actual fact formed in 1859.

INVERCARGILL GARRISON BAND

Little is known about the Invercargill Garrison Band's participation at the 1880 contest other than the details already in the New Zealand Brass band Association's records.

Captain W. E. Heywood, the Conductor, at this contest, was born in 1834 in the West Indies, where his father was stationed with the Imperial Forces. Entering the army, he came to New Zealand in 1860 with the 57th regiment, joining the staff of the Militia and attaining the rank of captain. In 1874 he came to Invercargill to command the Southland Volunteers but retired under a retrenchment policy and took over the Albion Hotel. He retained his interest in military affairs, being Captain of the Invercargill Rifles and G. Battery, and developed the Volunteer band to a "particularly high state of efficiency".

He "organised" the volunteer band in 1876 at which time it was renamed the Invercargill Garrison band. A special photograph was taken, each member having his own print affixed to a huge printed card, with Captain Heywood resplendent in the centre.

Heywood took the Band to Christchurch in 1880 and competed against 5 other bands.

New Zealand's first band Contest, was staged on 27 March 1880 in conjunction with the Annual Military review in Christchurch and proved to be a most impressive affair, the foremost attraction being the grand Military Concert. Apparently this function took the form of a band contest and a choral competition for "singing soldiers" interspersed with concert items. Both drill events were staged the same evening, the concert being held in the Drill Shed which had been specially lined throughout in calico, while additional lights and a double row of chairs were placed around the room "for the convenience of the ladies". A low dias, from where the concert items were to be presented, was erected against the wall facing the main entrance.

The enclosure where the bands performed outside was lit by firemen's torches lent for the occasion by Superintendent Harris of the Christchurch Fire Brigade. The bands, six in number, played in a circular tent erected in front of the shed in addition to the torches, "the whole enclosure was illuminated by a limelight operated by Professor Thompson".

The "Press" reported that the event was largely patronised, over 2500 persons being present. The profits, amounting to the handsome sum of 226 Pounds, were used to defray the expenses of the Review.

As the bands took possession of the stage they were all loudly cheered, a similar compliment being paid at the conclusion of their selections. every band had its admirers and, it is recorded, all played excellently.

The music rendered by the bands provided a varied programme and apparently took the form of a concert rather than a contest as the six participating bands presented a total of eight items, consisting of five operatic selections ("William Tell", "Bohemian Girl", "Maritana", "Death of Nelson" and "Attila") the waltz "Leila" the Polka "Fai de Joie" and the Grand March "Kissengent".

There were no official judges, the awards being left to the popular vote of the audience who were reported to have "pretty generally handed the palm to the Invercargill Garrison Band under its popular bandmaster "Captain W. E. Heywood". One report states that "Oamaru Garrison thought they should have won it and it was strongly suggested that the judgement of the audience was greatly influenced by the appeal of the handsome young conductor and the gorgeous uniforms of the Invercargill Garrison".

We believe the reference to the conductor may have been mistaken (Heywood was age 47 at this time) and that it was young W. V. Siddall, the lead cornetist at his first concert, upon whom the honour probably falls.

Other bands that took part were the Dunedin City Guards, Wellington City Rifles, Wellington Naval Brigade, Christchurch Battalion and Christchurch Yeomanry Cavalry.

Captain Heywood retired from the Band in 1882 and died in 1887.

mobile repair service

In inaugurating this Service some 28 years ago, BOB STAFFORD of BEGG'S (CH.CH.) Ltd. established a tradition still in action today. At this Contest, BOB will be working with fellow technician, NEWTON CANDISH, and the indestructible GEORGE HATT of Musical Import Ltd. Repair facilities will be available at Begg's, 603 Colombo Street, per "Mobile" Van and the Town Hall.

EMERGENCY PHONES:
BEGG'S 62-499

— After Hours Sum. 6940 —

This Centennial Contest is as much a time of nostalgia for Bob Stafford as it is for bandmen, when we reflect on Bob's activities with Brass AND Pipe Bands since introducing his FREE "First-Aid" repair and adjustment service (now known as "Mobile Repair Service") at contests over 32 years ago.

This extract from our 1976 Christchurch Contest programme illustrates just one facet of contest repairing — TEAM-WORK — but Bob suggests that just as important is DEDICATION. This was evident when working overnight (10 p.m. to 6 a.m.) at the last Auckland Contest on 2 transit-damaged instruments, one of which was a BB^b bass required for the final A grade test — and played after a marathon restoration by the winning band! If team-work, dedication and obviously expertise, are the keynotes, the bandmen can rely on a trouble-free Centennial Contest in keeping with Mobile Repair Service traditions!

Congratulations to the

NEW ZEALAND BRASS BANDS ASSOCIATION

on this historic occasion. It is fitting that this Centennial Contest should be sponsored by Boosey & Hawkes, makers of the instruments preferred by most leading bands.

*As New Zealand agents for Boosey & Hawkes, we have supported the National Championships through the years. At every contest since 1957,
Mr. George Hatt has represented our Company, and more recently Mr. John Creagh has also been actively involved.*

Our best wishes to all Bandsman for the Contest and the years ahead.

B & H SOVEREIGN
THE MOST SOUGHT AFTER
BAND INSTRUMENTS IN THE WORLD

HOW IT ALL STARTED

The years 1878, 1879 and 1880 are worthy of record in regard to band contesting in New Zealand.

It was during this period that the first contests were held and the honour of pioneering the movement belongs to the late Captain W. J. Heywood, of Invercargill, the Hon. George Jones, M.L.C. of Oamaru, and the late J. Fraser, of Queenstown.

The Oamaru Garrison Band and Invercargill Garrison Band held musical duels, and paved the way for larger contests which have been held at regular intervals ever since.

The International Exhibition held in Hagley Park, Christchurch, in 1882, introduced the first brass band contest held in New Zealand. There were five competitors and the band of the C Battery of Artillery, Timaru (now the Municipal Band) were the winners. Rules governing the contest were somewhat elastic, there being no restrictions as to the number of players, the Timaru Band putting on 17 performers, whilst the Band of the C.Y.C., Christchurch, and over 30. Bass and side drums were allowed and there was no question as to the bona fides of any player in regard to his active association with a band of any stated period. Mr Jas. Rowles was the conductor and Mr T. Perry solo cornet. The test selection was "Own Choice," and Timaru's choice was "Notre Chere Alsace," a piece which became very popular. After the judge's decision was announced there was a call for more music from the winning band, and Timaru responded with a selection from "Patience." It happened that at this time Williamson's Company was singing the opera in New Zealand and the band was served with a writ prohibiting it from playing "Patience."

It was, however, left to Oamaru to actually start contesting on something approaching sound and satisfactory lines. This contest was held in Oamaru on Saturday, April 26, 1886. The date is worthy of note, as it was the first contest at which a Test Selection was supplied. The name of the selection was "Wagner," arranged by H. Round. The musical adjudicator was Herr Beno Scherick.

The next band contest was held in Christchurch on November, 1889, the Test Selection being "Beethoven." The winner was the Oamaru Garrison Band, with Christchurch Garrison Second.

The formation of the first New Zealand Brass Bands' Association dates from this contest. Rules and regulations were submitted to a meeting held on November 11, 1889, and were subsequently approved at a representative meeting held at Oamaru the following Easter.

The first contest held under the jurisdiction of the Association took place at Dunedin in 1890, the musical judge being the late Mr T. Tallis Trimmell, Mus.Bac., of Wellington, who did not award points — just placed the bands in order of merit.

The next contest was held in Wellington, when Mr Tallis Trimmell again acted as adjudicator, and introduced a system of awarding points which has ruled ever since.

During these early days the honours were held by bands from the South Island, but the end came at Timaru in 1895 when the Wellington Garrison Band under the conductorship of Mr T. Herd, later Captain T. Herd, V.D., won the championship. The Two selections were "Der Freischultz" and "Halvey." At this contest the Wellington Garrison Band played two men short and won from 11 South Island bands. From that time onwards the North Island bands have won their fair share of the championship honours.

For a period of years following contests were conducted by two separate organisations, viz., North Islands Brass Bands' Association and the South Island Brass Bands' Association, sometimes in harmony, but unfortunately at times in conflict. It is, however, pleasing to relate that the two associations came together in 1931 and merged into the present New Zealand Brass Bands' Association, with which today is affiliated no fewer than 80 brass bands.

LABOUR AND LOVE

Brass Band devotees will be familiar with this much played work by Percy E. Fletcher.

The Tone Poem traces the gradual transformation of the character's deep felt despair and general dissatisfaction with the world and his lot into a joyful acceptance of, and cheerful willingness to succeed in his work and his life.

His anguish, well conveyed in the Andante Patetico lament, and his restless state of rebellion, portrayed in the Allegro Drammatico are eventually replaced by his newly found purpose in life and his determination to cope successfully with any task which befalls him.

THE LAND OF THE LONG WHITE CLOUD "AOTEAROA"

One century of brass band contesting is celebrated by this composition which tells a story nearly 10 centuries old. New Zealanders know their country as a place of cloud and wind. The name Aotearoa — the Land of the Long White Cloud — was given to it by our first settlers, the Maori discoverers from afar, Kupe and his wife, Hine-te-aparangi. She is alleged to have called out first "He ao! He ao! — A cloud! A cloud!" and even today the returning air traveller is likely to see cloud first and the land later.

Philip Sparke in response to his commission by the New Zealand Brass Band Association has provided a veritable paean of praise in this buoyant tribute to our country. It is a clear score, a perceptive appreciation of the large bands' potential for contrast and for climax. Introduction, scherzo, a briefly contemplative slow section and a massive fugal finale sums up the structure of this fine, easy-to-listen-to work.

THE ISLE OF AVALON

In "The Isle of Avalon" by Philip Catelinet, the mystical atmosphere with the tales of King Arthur and the vanishing isle is reflected vividly and effectively.

Each of the four movements represents a scene connected with this mythical story of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table.

The structural simplicity of 'Glastonbury Town' and 'The little Wattle Church', the majesty represented in 'King Arthur's Round Table', and the rhythmic buoyancy of the finale 'Glastonbury Fair' all contribute to the effectiveness of this pictorial Suite.

HINEMOA

The story of Hinemoa is one of the most beautiful and touching in Maori history. In Gareth Wood's composition, specially commissioned by the New Zealand Brass Band Association for this contest to commemorate 100 years of contesting, are heard sounds which evoke Hinemoa's first sight of Tutanekai, her father's abjuring her to forget him and her retreat to the shore to listen to Tutanekai's flute playing.

The music reflects the ebb and flow of the conflict between parent and daughter with the gradual emergence of victory for the love which gives Hinemoa the strength to swim the long distance over the lake to Tutanekai, beckoned always by the sounds of the flute from the shores of Mokoia. Tutanekai's cry "Hinemoa" sounds the final triumph of the couple. The chorale which began the tone poem returns as a final hymn of joy and thanks.

The Proud Bird flies by day.

Continental Airlines introduces daylight departures to Honolulu, Los Angeles, Denver and over 30 U.S. mainland cities.

Every Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday.

If you're headed for the States, you should be thinking about coming along with us. Because we fly to over 30 cities in America.

From coast to coast.

So you'll be able to enjoy our famous Proud Bird service just about wherever you go.

And our daylight departures mean you leave while the sun's up, not at night. We leave in daylight three days a week — Tuesday, Thursday, Sunday.

Another thing, you clear customs in quiet Honolulu, so when you arrive in Los Angeles, you're on your way in no time at all.

For reservations, call your Travel Agent or Continental Airlines. Phone Auckland 795 680.
